

Gretchen M. Ray, Pharm.D., PhC, BCACP, CDE

Associate Professor of Pharmacy Practice
University of New Mexico College of Pharmacy
Albuquerque, New Mexico

Gretchen Ray received her Pharm.D. from the University of New Mexico and then completed a PGY1 residency and a PGY2 residency in Cardiovascular Pharmacotherapy at UNM. She is currently an Associate Professor at the UNM College of Pharmacy. Her clinical practice is within two UNM Family Medicine clinics where she practices as a pharmacist clinician providing diabetes management and cardiovascular risk reduction services to high risk patients with diabetes. She is also a hub team member for the UNM Endocrinology teleECHO program.